

VOLUNTEER OPPORTUNITY

Volunteer for the Smithsonian Institution!

How would you like to work for the Smithsonian Institution? Well, here's your chance! The Smithsonian is bringing their traveling exhibit "Water|Ways" to Warriors' Path State Park this summer. And you could be a volunteer docent!

"Water|Ways" helps us to consider how we use water and what it symbolizes to us; how water unites and divides communities and how people resolve conflicts over this resource; how water affects the way we live, work, create, play and worship; and how we care for our water and protect it for future generations.

You don't need to be a water expert to volunteer. But you do need enthusiasm and people skills. Your time and talents could make for a successful exhibit. Your wisdom and personality could make a difference for thousands of exhibit visitors.

Interested? There will be an information and training session on Monday, June 19 at 7:00 PM, at the Warriors' Path State Park Recreation Building.

For more information, contact:
Marty Silver - marty.silver@tn.gov
Sarah Leedy - sarah.leedy@tn.gov
Park Office - 423-239-8531

